

Uncle Sam To Stand Fast On Berlin Rights; Reds Stir Fuss

Washington, Sept. 9 (AP)—President Truman said today the United States is standing up for its rights in Berlin while continuing efforts to settle differences with Russia.

Mr. Truman thus confirmed Secretary of State Marshall's announced policy of firm resistance to Communist disorders in Berlin.

At his news conference, the President would not go farther under questioning of reporters. One newsman had reminded him that the Berlin situation was "heavy on the hearts and minds" of Americans.

Mr. Truman said Marshall covered the situation as thoroughly as he could yesterday. He said settlement talks are continuing.

Fact Pact Collapses

He said the U. S. is standing up for its rights in Berlin. Although negotiations still are going on, the President said the United States will not negotiate under duress.

Asked if the Russian blockade isn't duress, he described it rather as attempted duress.

Diplomatic authorities here have indicated growing concern over possible early collapse of the East-West talks for a Berlin agreement.

Berlin, Sept. 9 (AP)—Russian fighter planes stalled and dived high above the American sector of Berlin today, leaving vapor trails reminiscent of the war days. The Russians broke no regulations, but excited the German population in this jittery four-power city.

The maneuvers, duly announced in advance, were staged against a somber background of big power tension.

Reds Scoff Protest

The Soviet commandant in Berlin, Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotikov, had just told the Americans "not to interfere in matters which don't concern them." This was the Russian answer to a protest by the American commandant, Col. Frank Howley, against an invasion of American offices in the city hall Monday in which 19 Western sector police were carted off.

The Russians also have turned down a French demand for the release of another 19 Western sector police who were kidnapped by Soviet sector police Wednesday morning while traveling under a Russian safe-conduct guarantee.

About 12 Russian Yak fighters roared over Berlin early in the day. Later there were two more groups, one of five planes and one of nine. They flew over the Zehlendorf district, an American residential section, stunting, diving and leaving vapor trails but remaining at altitudes of from 25,000 to 30,000 feet. This, an American spokesman said, was not a violation of four-power flight regulations, which apply only to flights of 10,000 feet or less.

Fifty Register Up To Noon At Court House

About 50 men had registered at the arbitration room in the court house up to noon today for the forthcoming draft. Wednesday 163 men born in 1926 signed up for the draft. Today was the last day for men in that age group to sign.

Friday and Saturday all men born in 1927 and who are at present in Adams county will come to the court house to register for Selective Service.

Red Cross Volunteers continued in charge of the registration today under the direction of Mrs. Eff Chapman, of the county Red Cross office. Those who are serving as registrars today include Mrs. Katherine Seabrook, Mrs. R. D. Wickerham, Mrs. Walter H. Danforth, Mrs. Earl J. Bowman, Mrs. C. E. Billehimer, Mrs. William Weaver, Mrs. LeRoy Wimbrenner, Mrs. Henry M. Scharf, Mrs. A. Harrison Barr and Mrs. Janet Sachs.

ENTERS TRAINING
An additional Adams county girl who has been admitted to the Harrisburg Hospital School of Nursing is Miss Lois Kane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Kane of Guernsey. Seven other girls from the county who entered training there had been announced previously.

DeGaulists Demand Revision Of Constitution For Support

Paris, Sept. 9 (AP)—De Gaulists demanded today a revision of the French constitution as their price for support of a cabinet Conservative of Henri Queuille hopes to form.

The followers of Gen. Charles De Gaulle, the wartime Free French leader and first provisional president after the Germans were chased out, are Rightists. Paul Giacobbi, head of the De Gaulists in the National Assembly, said he insisted on elections next month to the council of the Republic, the second French chamber.

He and other DeGaulists talked with Queuille last night. He gave no detail of the exact changes De Gaulists want in the charter, but the general has said often the chief executive must have more power.

Queuille is trying to form the 14th French cabinet since the war. Robert Schuman's government resigned

Tuesday after 64 hours in office.

Queuille immediately ran into Socialist opposition when he informed them of De Gaulist demands. He has said he cannot form a cabinet without Socialist support. He scheduled another meeting with Socialists later in the day and probably will tell President Vincent Auriol afterwards whether he thinks he can form a stable government, excluding Communists.

The French public, anxious to see a cabinet formed to replace that of Robert Schuman, was uncertain whether Queuille could succeed—and if he does—of how long it might last.

Queuille, a 64-year-old doctor from Brittany, was a senator before the war. A Radical Socialist, he has held several cabinet posts since the war and was minister of public works and transport in the government today. Our arms are interchangeable.

HEAD CRUSHED BETWEEN TRUCK AND PLATFORM

Albert L. Small, 65, Mechanicsburg, was instantly killed Wednesday afternoon when his head was crushed between a truck and a loading machine at Shaul's LimeStone Quarry, near Mechanicsburg.

Dr. Edward A. Haegele, Cumberland County Coroner, said that his investigation is being continued but that all evidence indicates that death occurred like this:

Small, a truck driver for the quarry company, was standing on the running board of another truck as it pulled out from under a stone loading machine. Small's head was accidentally crushed between the corner of the truck and the low beam of the loading machine.

Standing on Running Board

When Dr. Haegele received the call, he said he was told Small "had toppled from the running board and apparently died of a heart attack." When he reached the scene he discovered the man had suffered a fractured skull and ordered an autopsy.

The autopsy revealed that Small had suffered multiple compound fractures of the skull and brain lacerations. Then the doctor made an investigation at the quarry and found evidence which confirmed his theory.

Another truck driver at the quarry, Woodrow W. Sheriff, of near Gardners, told the coroner Small was standing on the running board of his truck when he prepared to drive out from under the loading machine. A moment later, Sheriff said he looked down and saw Small crumpled on the ground. The Coroner said Sheriff told him he did not know that Small's head had been crushed.

Small had been working at Shaul's for 23 years. He was a member of the Brethren in Christ Church. He is survived by his wife, and three sons.

REC UNIT PLANS MORE PROGRAMS FOR ADULTS, '49

The Gettysburg Recreation Association, which closed a successful year's program on the four playgrounds August 26, is planning "a bigger and better year next season," with emphasis on more adult participation, according to Paul Whitmoyer, playground director.

Average daily participants in playground activities was 109 in the morning, 117 in the afternoon and 72 in the evening. Only the high school playground was open in the evenings. Hundreds visited the playgrounds as spectators.

The high school playground was operated full time. Those at the Meade school and at the playgrounds in the north end and east end were operated only part time. Numerous improvements were made at the high school. At Meade school lines were painted for several games, a basketball net was installed and a sandbox provided. Volleyball was one of the feature games at all the playgrounds.

Play Equipment

The following play equipment was provided at all the play areas: softballs and bats, dodgeball, bean bag, basketball, jump ropes, volleyball and net, score sheets and first aid kits.

The playground programs set a record in the almost total absence of injuries during the season. There was only one broken bone recorded, and that was before the actual opening of the season. Considerable work was done in clearing off play areas, and progress was made on the new recreation field of seven acres where workers are now developing turf for next year.

Special events held during the summer included a doll show, stuffed animal show, flower show, costume fete, crafts, sewing classes, Red Cross swimming taught at Marsh creek, a trip to Columbia for the latter's play day and the closing big event, a play day. Among contests held were novelty races, horseshoe pitching, bantam games, junior baseball league, two track meets, a freckle contest, a bubble gum contest and a bicycle race.

Other Special Events

Among other special events and games were a softball game between the "Old Timers" and a girls' team; kickball game; ping pong tournament; dodgeball; Indian ball; giant steps; story-telling; fly and plug casting for fishermen; Blue and Gray band concert; movies; model plane demonstration and many children's games.

The recreation association provided a picnic kit which was used by more than a dozen organizations. It included softball bats, balls, bases, gloves, scorebook, first aid kit, volleyball net and ball; playground; jump rope; tug of war rope; ping pong equipment; checkers and other table games; croquet and horseshoes. Other equipment, including badminton and quoits, will be added to the kit for next year.

ELKS TO TEACH 'AMERICAN WAY' TO U. S. YOUTH

"The foremost job of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks this year will be the proper education of youth in the American heritage way of life so that it can be handed down and protected by future generations," declared George I. Hall, grand exalted ruler of the Elks, who was tendered a testimonial banquet by Gettysburg Lodge 1045 Wednesday evening.

Over 350 members of the Elks attended the dinner, including many past and present national and state officers. Guests were present from Harrisburg, Lancaster, York, Carlisle, Chambersburg, Lebanon, Waynesboro, Hanover, Columbia, Middlebury, and Red Lion, of the South Central district; Lewistown, Williamsport, Aetna, Allentown, Wilkinsburg, Hagerstown, Chicago and New York.

Pitzer Honored

In opening his address Mr. Hall announced that H. Earl Pitzer, a member of the local lodge, has been named chairman of the credentials committee of the Grand Lodge.

A scathing denunciation of an article appearing in Life magazine of July 26 which stated that fraternal organizations and the Elks were a contributing factor in the deterioration of home life in America was made by Mr. Hall. He cited the Elks' contributions in supporting many activities conducive to better citizenship including the granting of scholarships to deserving students, sponsoring of Boy and Girl Scout troops, aid to crippled children, entertainment of war veterans now in hospitals and aid to needy persons other than Elks.

Observing

However the day is coming when we may not need oil—when atomic energy will be harnessed for useful purposes. That may be five or ten years. And it is possible that Europe may obtain that energy before we do. There are people in every country just as brilliant as the people in this country. And they are driven by necessity and nothing stimulates work like necessity."

Sees Greater Yields

Frazer also forecast tremendously increased yields of apples per tree in the foreseeable future. He told of experiments in hybrid trees, how crossing Northern Spy with Mallinckrodt 16 produces a stock tree known as '789 and resulted in eight times as much fruit per tree. "The next big thing in the U. S. will be to put fruit on roots which belong to the soil in which they are placed," he added.

He also pointed out that ways have been found to get more chromosomes into a cell—thus producing trees that yield apples with better color and increase production by 2½ times. "And we can so step up the vitamin content of apples for processing that it will knock out the orange juice industry."

"We can do these things, because we are a people with the urge to do. We can find a way clear; we have accomplished miracles, but the miracles to come will make those in the past seem small."

Knouse Presides

M. E. Knouse, chairman of the executive committee of the South Mountain Fair association, presided at the afternoon session Wednesday.

Truman Nold, secretary of the National Apple Institute, termed failure of the apple industry to pack and sell apples that are uniform in quality and size one of the reasons why the apple grower gets only 40 cents out of every $1 spent by the consumer for apples. "Seventy per cent of the groceries today are self-service groceries," he said, "and as a result the customer and the apple are face to face. The customer picks out the better apples and lets the rest alone. What remains, having been handled so often, spoil and you pay them in lowered prices paid for fresh fruit to the grower."

"What you actually are doing is hiring the American housewife to do the grading you should do yourself. And she is the most expensive help you can get. If apples are packed uniformly, if there is no need to pick over them, then there will be less spoilage, less loss, and you will get more as your share of the consumer's apple dollar. Today the farmer who produces beef gets 70 cents out of every dollar spent by the consumer for beef, the poultryman gets from 60 to 70 cents of every dollar the consumer pays for eggs and the potato grower gets 55 cents of every dollar spent for potatoes."

Meyer Speaks

"The trend is away from home cooking by the housewife these days; but the trend is not so great that there are no housewives today who cook. There are still many who do cook and do bake and we can sell to her cooking varieties of apples, to better advantage than ever before. But we must keep the cooking varieties segregated from other apples and promote them for what they are."

Three girls picked out Clyde from a police lineup at headquarters here yesterday. A ten-year-old girl from Philadelphia said he was the man who lured her from a carnival and attempted to assault her. Two 13-year-old girls from Tyrone, Pa., also named him as the man who attacked them, one this year and the other a year ago.

The string of identifications started with Clyde's arrest here on a charge of assault on a Burlington county girl. Several detainees have been picked against him in the other cases.

Meanwhile, Capt. Harry E. McElroy of the Pennsylvania state police said Clyde was being questioned today about the unsolved murder of a 17-year-old Pennsylvania State college student, Rachel Taylor, in 1940.

Cheif Clifford D. Cain of the Burlington county police quoted Clyde as saying "I have done a lot of things but I never committed murder."

The Pennsylvania decline of four per cent this year compares with 10 per cent for the nation as a whole.

Elsewhere on the farm scene, the department reported that the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar remained unchanged at $1.20 on Aug. 15 despite sharp drops in the prices received for some crops.

The index of all farm products, based on 1909-14 averages at 100, was 302 an advance of two points during the month.

Potatoes were off 20 cents a bushel from July 15 to an average of $1.90 while other declines ranged from nine cents a bushel for barley to 55 cents for soybeans.

The poultry and egg index moved up 15 points, helping to offset the decline in crop prices. Eggs advanced 5.4 cents to 63.6 cents a dozen, while live weight chickens declined 0.7 cents a pound to average 37 cents on Aug. 15.

Maroons Will Open Football Season With Delone Friday Evening At McSherrystown

Gettysburg high school's football team, with hopes high for one of the most successful campaigns in years, locks horns with an old rival Delone Catholic, at McSherrystown Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the opening game of the season for both schools.

The large crowd expected to attend will probably witness another characteristic hard fought Squire-Daroon tilt. Both teams believe they have definitely improved since last season and each has a large group of veterans who will see plenty of action.

Gates to the Delone field will open at 6:30 o'clock with the game getting underway an hour and one half later.

Local fans will occupy the south stands with the Delone rooters on the north stands.

Spirit Best in Years

Coach George Forney could not conceal an optimistic feeling on the season today when he said "The morale and spirit of this year's team is exceptionally good and is definitely the best since I resumed coaching in 1946. We have plenty of size and if more speed can be produced on the line it is possible we may have a very good season. Our backs should go well."

No announcement was made as to the definite starting lineup for the opener. A squad of 32, all of whom went to the pre-season camp, will be taken to McSherrystown for the game. The lone youngster missing is Ronnie Kump who is still nursing an illness which will keep him out of uniform for the opener.

The squad which will be taken to McSherrystown includes the following: Ends—Westerdahl, Donaldson, Snyder, Ford, Hankey and Kuhn; tackles—Williams, Kitzmiller, Kane, Cleveland, Groening; guards—Dayhoff, Neibler, Hess, Aughinbaugh, Davis, Redding; centers—Bucher, Shultz, Small; backs—Hottel, Bushman, Knox, Bowling, Biesecker, Sachs, P. Miller, Myers, Caskey, R. Miller, Sanders, Hoffman.

A hint on who will probably be in the opening lineup may be gained by considering the players in the order they are named for the various positions:

Squires Have Vets

There will be nine lettermen in the starting group for the Squires, according to Coach Alex Bell's probable starting lineup.

The line will be composed of Staub, Smith, Toler, Livesberger, Hagerman, Hemler and Gebhart, while the backfield will include Murren, Smith, Sheaffer and Small. All except Livesberger and Sheaffer gained letters a year ago.

Delone plans to use a T and single wing style of offense this year. Last year the T was used entirely.

Friday's contest will mark the eighth meeting of the schools since the series was started in 1939. The Squires hold a wide edge with six wins against a lone defeat. No games were played in 1941 and 1945.

It is likely the Gettysburg teams will be attired in entire new outfits for the tilt if they are required to wear white jerseys.

The Gettysburg high school band will accompany the team to McSherrystown. Hundreds of local fans are also planning to witness the game.

Eastern League

(By The Associated Press) Rollie Leveille hit a single in the 10th-inning last night and stretched the Albany Senators' second-place margin to a game and a half over the Utica Blue Sox in the fading Eastern league season.

The Senators nipped the Sox 2-1 in a game that went nine innings without a run on either side. Leveille was caught short of second base, but it didn't matter. Two Senators had hustled home for the needed margin.

The Scranton Miners, meanwhile, maintained their pennant race lead of two games over Albany by shading the Elmira Pioneers, 2-1. All clubs play only two more games to end the season.

The Williamsport Tigers pulled even with the Hartford Chiefs in fourth place by downing the Wilkes-Barre Barons, 5-3.

The Chiefs and the Binghamton Triplettes were idle.

(By The Associated Press) The Sunbury Reds, who sneaked into an interstate league playoff berth by the skin of their teeth, trounced the Trenton Giants 4-2 last night in the opener of a seven-game semi final post-season series.

The Reds, who finished in fourth place in the regular season's play were forced to come from behind in defeating the giants, second place club in the class B. circuit.

The first game of the other semi-final series, involving first place Wilmington and third place York, was rained out.

Righthander Jim Davis led Sunbury to victory after a shaky start. Davis allowed three hits good for two runs in the first inning and then settled down to permit only four scattered base blows the rest of the game.

Steve Filipowicz, due to report to the Cincinnati Reds after the interstate playoffs, led the Red's batting attack with a homer and two triples in his first three trips to the plate.

RED SOX BEAT YANKEES TO STRETCH LEAD

By JOE REICHLER
(AP Sports Writer)

The outlook appeared gloomy for the rest of the American league today as Joe McCarthy's battering Boston Red Sox boasted their largest lead of the season.

Coming from behind in typical Red Sox clubbing fashion, the murderous hitting Hubmen overcame their arch rivals, the New York Yankees, 10-6, last night, to increase their margin over the runner-up New Yorkers to two and a half games.

In drawing first blood in their all-important three-game series with the Yankees, the Red Sox kept two streaks alive. They extended their latest winning streak to eight straight, and now own 6 consecutive triumphs against the Yankees. They have capped off 22 of their last 26.

Indiana Beat Detroit

After the Red Sox moved in front, 6-4, the Yankees tied it up with single runs in the sixth and seventh innings.

The Sox quickly untied the score in their half of the third inning. With Lefty Jo Page, third Yankee hurler, on the mound, they put together three hits and three walks to four runs across and put the game out of the Yankees' reach. Lefty Earl Johnson, who had replaced Dobson in the seventh, was credited with his eighth victory against two defeats.

The third-place Cleveland Indians scored an unearned run in the last half of the 11th inning to nip the Detroit Tigers, 8-7, and remain four and a half games behind Boston. Larry Doby, who rapped out four singles to extend his consecutive hitting streak through 19 games, scored the winning run when Second Baseman Connie Berry threw wild to the plate on Wally Judnich's bouncer.

Athletics Win Two

The Tigers had overcome a 7-3 deficit to force the game into extra innings. Bob Lemon, trying for his 20th victory, was shelved in the seventh. He allowed seven hits and gave up eight walks. His string of scoreless innings ended at 31 in the fourth. Sam Zoldak, fourth Cleveland pitcher, was credited with the victory. Art Houtteman, charged with the defeat, dropped his 16th game. He has won two

Today's Talk

IN YOUR SMALL CORNER

Nothing that any human being does, of an unselfish character, is ever performed in vain. Nor is it insignificant. Each of us, in our small corner, may send out a message that may travel to the far ends of the earth. We never know.

Carrie Chapman Catt, Grace Darling, Clara Barton, founder of the worldwide Red Cross, and great numbers of others, were just unknowns, in their small corners, until they did something about it, and initiated work that has made their names endeared throughout the world. Like the insignificant acorn, great growth results.

A friend of mine has just completed a campaign to raise funds to enlarge the children's hospital in his town. He did a magnificent job, at no pay whatsoever, but for the pure pleasure of having rendered a valuable service that may save the lives of thousands of children. He showed me a most appreciative letter from the management of that hospital, and he remarked that it was the most profitable service he had ever rendered. So greatly was the letter appreciated that it almost brought tears to his eyes—but they were tears of gratitude to those who had so recognized his efforts. Gratitude for service rendered is the most precious payment that any one can receive. He was assigned a small corner—but he filled it magnificently.

Disorder And Despair
And why should the Bolsheviks be bent on disrupting the Berlin conference? Because, as this column has pointed out before, Communism does not want peace.

Part of the fundamental strategy of Communism's world revolution is to create disorder and despair. It never has made progress by peaceful methods.

That's why this columnist has been predicting that any accord reached between the Reds and the Western Democracies would be merely a truce to give the Communists a chance to consolidate their gains and prepare for fresh offensives. The current conversations of the Big Four may result in some sort of agreement—but it won't mean lasting peace. However, temporary peace may be better than no peace at all—so long as it isn't achieved by appeasement.

Strong Arm Methods

Poland is providing us with further evidence of Bolshevik tactics. The Communists yesterday launched a drive for the avowed purpose of destroying "all exploiters and capitalists" among the some 15,000,000 peasants of the nation.

It is the nature of Bolshevism that always it must proceed by strong arm methods. There are no half-way measures. Communism is allowing itself plenty of rope deliberately. It will either hang itself or hang us.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Braver Than Expected."

And never pays for what he buys.

But if you question: who are "they?"

Not one who's quoting them can say.

"They say," but since no one can name

Doubtful of all of them am I.

PEACE NOT GOAL OF COMMUNISTS ON WORLD SCENE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

We have a prime example of Communist tactics the world over in yesterday's kidnaping, by Russian gunners and their German police, of 19 Western Berlin police after the latter had left the city hall in the Soviet zone under a Muscovite guarantee of safe passage.

The Red maneuver was just as bold and cold-blooded as that. It was another move in the Russian campaign to unseat the duly elected Berlin city council which is anti-Communist. The Western Berlin police came from the American-British-French zones and were present to shield a meeting of the council.

U. S. Secretary of State Marshall takes us a step further by stating that the Communist attacks on the Berlin city government are largely intended to upset talks of the Big Four military governors on the crisis in the Soviet-blockaded German capital. The Secretary said the Berlin disorders have followed a familiar Communist pattern, and declared that the efforts to disrupt the conferences of the governors must be firmly resisted.

Non-Signing Local Unions in Bad Spot
Washington, Sept. 9 (AP) — Locals unions whose officers haven't filed non-Communist oaths are taking beatings.

The full extent of their shaky position under the Taft-Hartley act is now clear as another Labor Day rolls around.

The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) has explored and interpreted the non-Communist affidavit provision far more thoroughly than any other part of the Taft-Hartley law.

The Background
Here is the background of the situation:

The Taft-Hartley act says in effect that the NLRB shall ignore all petitions filed by a union unless the union has filed certain documents with the government.

The best-known of these documents are affidavits, signed by the union's officers, swearing they aren't Communists and don't believe in overthrowing the government by illegal means.

For a local union to qualify for NLRB help, these affidavits must be signed not only by its own officers, but also by the officers of the national union with which it is affiliated.

Few Big Holdouts
The great majority of AFL, CIO, and independent unions have qualified.

The main holdouts are John L. Lewis's United Mine Workers, Philip Murray's Steelworkers, and about a dozen left-wing CIO unions, the largest of which is the United Electrical Workers.

A non-qualifying local union may get along all right so long as the employer finds it to his advantage to continue dealing with it, or so long as no rival union appears in the plant.

But if there is another union which the employer would prefer to deal with, the plight of the non-qualifying union may become desperate.

One of the main functions of the NLRB is to conduct plant elections to determine whether the employers shall be represented by a union, and if so, by what union. A non-qualifying union can't ask for such an election (but other unions can, and so can the employer).

It Can't Object
If an election is held, the non-qualifying union can't get on the ballot. There is no way for the workers to vote for it.

Furthermore that union can't even get a hearing in the case. It can't object to the way the election was conducted. It can't file charges of unfair labor practices against the employer, and neither individual employees nor the national union can file charges on its behalf.

$3,300 PROFIT FROM CARNIVAL FIREMEN HELD

Fifty three members of the Alpha Fire Company No. 1 attended the monthly meeting Tuesday evening, with the president, Wayne Arnold, in charge. Harry W. Badders presented the secretary's report. A highlight of the meeting was the presentation of the committee report on the annual carnival which was conducted August 9 to 14 on the Littlestown playground.

Monroe Morelock, general chairman, presented the report as follows: Receipts: soliciting in the borough and vicinity, $1,678.88; carnival, $1,336.76; receipts, from sale of books, $986; loan, $500, or a total of $4,501.64. Expenses: prizes, $469.20; refreshments, $283.57; fruit stand, $346.85; advertising, $54.26 and electric current, $47.17 or a total of $1,201.05. Profit, $3,300.59.

The general committee which in addition to the chairman included Monroe J. Stavely and Harry W. Badders was discharged with a rising vote of thanks.

Plan Picnic Sept. 18

In the absence of the fire chief, Jay D. Basehart, the president reported that there were no fire calls since the last meeting. William R. Mehring was elected to membership and the following names were placed in nomination: Norman Snyder, E. Foreman, Stavely and Clair Reigle.

A discussion was held in regards to the annual firemen's picnic for the members. It was decided to hold this picnic again this year in Dr. C. A. Spangler's woods, near town, on Saturday, September 18. The committee on arrangements includes Charles Randall, C. O. Senter, Robert Koontz, George Palmer, Francis Zepp and Levi Hull.

Announcement was made that the company won a prize of $50 in the Adams County Firemen's parade at Gettysburg on Labor Day. This was the second prize for the nearest appearing company in the line of march. Interest has been shown in reorganizing the uniformed ranks in the Alpha Fire company. A committee was appointed to contact the firemen personally to ascertain their interest. The committee is composed of Wayne Arnold, Jack Crouse and Levi Hull.

Donate $100 for Bleachers

There followed a discussion on the holding of a winter carnival to help make possible these uniformed ranks. This proposition was tabled until the next meeting to enable Mr. Arnold's committee to report.

The company accepted an invitation to attend the Carnival of the Parkville Fire department next Thursday evening, September 16. All firemen with uniforms are to report at the fire hall that evening at 6 o'clock.

Bills were ordered paid amounting to $34.31. Receipts for the evening were $3,302.59. Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the social committee. The company made a donation of $100 to the Littlestown high school athletic association to build a section of bleachers for the football field.

Plan Class Reunion

The first reunion of the class of 1928, Littlestown high school, will be held Sunday afternoon, September 12, at 2 o'clock in the woods adjoining St. John's Lutheran church. This reunion will be for the members and their families and a number of invited guests. A basket luncheon will be served. A program will be presented in charge of Mrs. Theda Motter Schwartz. Nineteen of the 20 members of the class are living.

The Friendship Circle Sunday school class of St. Paul's Lutheran church met at the parsonage, West King street, Wednesday evening. This was a quarterly meeting. The class song, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" opened the program with Mrs. Samuel Smith serving as pianist. Mrs. Lloyd Humbert, teacher, read Psalm 119, and Mrs. David S. Kammerer offered prayer. Mrs. Kammerer reported to the class on the church work of the Board of American Missions of the Lutheran church at the mission school, Konnarock, N. C., which school the Rev. and Mrs. Kammerer visited on their vacation during the summer. A Bible quiz was conducted by the teacher.

Cub Leaders Meet

A meeting of the den mothers and the den chiefs of Littlestown Cub Pack No. 84 was held Tuesday evening at the home of the cub master, the Rev. Kenneth D. James. Arrangements were made for the first meeting of the new cub year, next Tuesday, September 14, at 8 p. m. in the auditorium in St. John's church grove. It will be a re-organization meeting for the Cub Pack. All the clubs desiring to remain in the pack.

STRIKE IDLES AUTO WORKERS

(By The Associated Press)

A strike involving only 170 independent union workers made idle some 50,000 auto workers in Detroit today and threatened to force others from their jobs in the motor industry.

The 50,000 laid off in auto plants boosted to more than 115,000 the number of workers made idle in the nation's major strikes. Some 64,000 workers are involved in strikes in the west coast oil and shipping industries and in the New York-Northern New Jersey trucking business.

A walkout of 170 plant guards at the Briggs Manufacturing company in Detroit was followed by a shutdown of eight plants and a layoff of 25,000 workers. The plants closed after CIO United Auto Workers refused to cross picket lines.

About 19,000 employees at Chrysler Corporation and 6,000 at Packard were laid off because of a shortage of Briggs bodies and a complete shutdown of the plants was likely if the strike continues.

Chapter 9

Phil Martin huddled within his rain-soaked jacket and its soggy upturned collar. His hat brim was shapeless beneath the downpour, his pants were drenched and his boots were waterlogged. His equally rain-soaked horse plodded along wearily . . . he was too worn and winded to go any faster and Phil was too much annoyed with things in general to care.

He rode on for a time in silence, a bulky figure with a bowed head. His weary horse stopped suddenly, and Phil's head jerked upward. Fifty feet ahead of them was a dark structure.

"What in time . . ." Phil muttered. He jerked the reins sharply. "Go on!"

The horse broke into a trot. Presently they pulled up in front of the building and Phil dismounted stiffly. He trudged to the door.

He poked his head inside, but it was too dark for him to see anything. He stepped into the shack, stopped when he stumbled over something that lay on the floor. He drew back warily, whipped open his jacket, loosened his gun in its holster, produced a match. The phosphorous head scratched against his thumb nail and flared. Phil's eyes ranged downward and widened almost instantly . . . on the floor lay the huddled figure of a girl.

"Holy cow!" he whispered in awed tones.

He stepped a bit closer and bent over. It was Gay Hollis. There was a shadeless lamp standing on a shelf directly opposite the door; he strode over, turned the wick, touched the match flame to it and it flamed with a sputtering light. Phil closed the door quickly. He whipped off his hat and jacket, slung them aside, placed the lamp on the floor just beyond the exhausted Gay. He knelt down beside her.

"Hey," he said, touched her arm. "Hey!"

There was no response from the girl. He turned her over gently on her back. She was breathing and he felt relieved. He raised his eyes. There was a wide bunk at the far end of the shack and a folded blanket lay at the foot of the bunk itself.

He slid his arm under her . . . He slid his left arm under her, his right arm under her legs . . . he lifted her easily, carried her to the bunk and started to lay her down. He frowned in thought for a moment, finally shook his head.

"Nope," he muttered. "Can't put 'er down the way she is. Gotta get them wet things off 'ers off first."

He caught up the blanket, opened it and spread it over her. Then he knelt down, fumbled underneath the blanket and managed to complete the unbuttoning of her dungarees. He slipped his left hand under her body, used it as a lever and raised her . . . presently he slipped off the dungarees over one box and retraced his steps. Again he bent over her, remembered that she was still wearing her boots . . . after some more fumbling under the blanket he removed them, put them down on the floor. He eyed her sweater. That was going to prove even more difficult than the dungarees.

He squared his shoulders, drew a deep breath . . . he drew up her sweater, gulped and colored. Quickly he eased it over her head, backed away and camped. He turned, marched off, and draped the sweater over a second box.

"Boy," he mumbled and shook his head again. "That was somethin', awright. Danged good thing Nettie wasn't here t' see it."

His shirt was drenched and it clung to him. He found a battered pail in a dark corner of the shack, brought it out . . . with his gun out he smashed the two remaining boxes, put the pieces of wood into the pail, used two of his precious remaining matches to start the wood burning. When the pail fire appeared to be coming along, he put the thing down in the middle of the floor, moved it a little closer to the boxes, holding Gay's sweater and dungarees.

"Reckon that oughta help thim dry," he muttered.

He unbuttoned his own shirt, took it off . . . held it up for a moment; there was a makeshift table in one corner and he dragged it across the floor until it was close to the crackling pail, spread his shirt out on the table with the tail hanging down.

"Phil," he heard a voice say and a hand reached out and caught his.

"O-h," he said. "You awright?"

"Yes," Gay answered. "Thanks to you of course."

He moved away a bit.

"Don't go," she pleaded. "Sit down here beside me."

"We'll . . ." He sat down on the edge of the bunk.

There was a movement on the bunk and Gay pushed the outspread blanket away and sat up. "Hey," he said quickly. "I don't think you oughta do that."

"Do what, Phil? This?" Her lips were against his, her arm around his neck, before he realized it. "Don't you want me to thank you?"

She kissed him softly, gently. Phil was mute . . . he knew he should up at George but he turned his head, then he wheeled his horse away.

"We'd better get goin'," he said over his shoulder. "B'fore they come lookin' f'r us."

They rode for a time in silence, each of them grave-faced and thoughtful.

"Phil," George said. "You'd better tell 'em that the three of us spent the night in the shack. There ain't 'ny point in hurtin' Nettie anymore'n you have already."

Chapter 11

It was three days since the storm, three long, drawnout and uneven days. To all appearances there was nothing amiss in either the cottage or the big house, yet the evidence of strained relationships was there.

As one would expect, it was even more noticeable in the cottage. Perhaps it was due to Phil whose guilty conscience goaded him into doing the very things that were certain to arouse doubts and suspicions in his wife.

There was no telling now, no knowing just what Nettie thought of and believed of Phil's awkwardly told story.

Nettie had listened to Phil's recital, but she had offered no comment when he had finished. Her silence had made him uncomfortable. If only she had called him an out and out liar.

The long hours alone in the cottage gave Nettie's imagination added opportunity for wild, unhampered expansion . . . but to her credit, when Phil returned for supper, she greeted him with a smile, even permitted him to give her a peck of a kiss on her cheek.

As usual, when Phil finished eating, he opened his belt and pushed his chair back from the table, sank back in it and closed his eyes. Nettie watched him out of the corner of her eye.

"I was in town today," she said presently.

"That so?"

"I bought the material for this dress," she said. "I made it this afternoon. Do you . . . do you like it?"

"Yeah, sure," he said quickly. "Looks fine."

"I saw Cathy and her sister in town, too," she went on as she heaped the remaining plates preparatory to removing them from the table. "Uh-huh."

"That Gay Hollis woman is a good looking woman."

There was no response, no comment from Phil.

"That Corbin man," she went on again presently. "The one who runs that saloon, we'll, he was standing outside his place when Gay came along. Cathy had gone into a store meanwhile. Anyway, Corbin said something to Gay and she smiled and stopped. You'd think they'd met before from the way they just stood there and talked. The next thing I knew, he was leading her into his place and he had his arm around her waist. Cathy came out, saw them going into the saloon, and she put down her packages and ran after them. It wasn't a minute later when Gay and she came out. Cathy was furious. I heard her call Gay a common flirt. Cathy was still telling her what she thought of her as they drove out of town."

Phil climbed stiffly to his feet.

"Reckon I'll get washed and turn in," he said. "Got another full day ahead 'o me t'morrow."

He trudged up the stairs. A door on the upper floor closed behind him presently. Nettie sobbed softly, wiped her eyes with a corner of a dish towel, then she seemed to square her shoulders and started washing the dishes.

Supper in the big house was a quiet affair with practically no conversation among the three people who sat at the kitchen table. When the meal was finished, Gay got to her feet and went upstairs; she returned shortly with her coat over her arm.

"I'm just going for a short stroll," Gay said in answer to Cathy's unasked question. "I think a breath of air will do me good."

George got up from the table. He hitched up his pants, caught up his hat and slapped it on his head and stalked out. He was probably a hundred yards from the house when he spied a slim figure ahead of him.

"There she is, awright," he muttered to himself. "Wonder where she's headed for?"

He saw Gay turn off toward the road that led to town.

"Must be expectin' someb'dy out 'n town," he decided.

It was less than five minutes later when he heard the clatter of approaching hoof beats. George grunted, hitched up his belt and trudged up the road. He heard the gentle whinny of a horse in the darkness ahead of him . . . suddenly he saw the horse, and two figures standing beside the animal. They sprang apart. George stopped.

"Awright, Gay," he said curtly.

"Reckon you c'n turn around now and trot back home."

"Just a minute," her companion said. It was Corbin.

"O-h, so it's you again, eh?"

Thought I told you t' stay off the Circle-A?"

"You're taking a lot on yourself, aren't you?" Corbin retorted. "I think this lady is quite capable of deciding whether she wants to see me or not, without your help."

"Long as she live on my place, I'll help 'er decide the things I think she needs help in. Get goin', Mister, before I help you get started."

"All right," he said heavily. "I'll go. But one of these days, Akers . . ."

Gay turned on her heel and started up the road. They were nearly in sight of the house when he stepped up beside her. She looked at him,

Allen's nude body was found early Sunday in his hotel room here. A twisted bedsheet had been looped around his neck and tied behind him to his hands and ankles in what police called a "Japanese noose." It was so contrived, police said, that any movement by the victim tightened the noose.

District Attorney Julian B. Erway quoted Smith as saying that Allen had made "improper advances" in the hotel room early Saturday morning. The district attorney said Smith admitted trussing Allen with the sheet, stuffing a gag in his mouth and robbing him.

Allen's nude body was found early Sunday in his hotel room here. A twisted bedsheet had been looped around his neck and tied behind him to his hands and ankles in what police called a "Japanese noose." It was so contrived, police said, that any movement by the victim tightened the noose.

Smith enlisted in the army for six years last May 4 in Albany. His father, Howard Smith, Sr., is employed by the General Electric company in Schenectady, N. Y., and lives in Johnstown, near Gloversville. Smith's parents have been separated for some time, Gloversville authorities said.

"Favored modernization of the Lincoln Highway, The Main Street of America," and that he was "opposed to sacrificing present main arteries of travel in the state to the extension of the Turnpike."

Mr. Duff also said that he felt it a "primary obligation of the state to modernize the Lincoln Highway" and that he "favored maintenance of the present toll road turnpike but opposed construction of additional roads of this type."

In the same interview Mr. Duff elaborated at length on the importance of maintaining the historic shrines of Pennsylvania, especially Gettysburg, and the necessity of "maintaining adequate highways to facilitate tourist travel to these historic spots."

It is inconceivable that a great state like Pennsylvania will sacrifice one of its main highways across the state in order to attract visitors to a "speed route" that affords little or no scenic or historic attractions.

No one dare deny that Gettysburg, its battlefield and the National Cemetery where Lincoln delivered his immortal address, comprise the greatest attraction in Pennsylvania. The great majority of visitors want to see this historic shrine and Pennsylvania is duty-bound as well as morally obligated to maintain adequate highways in order that these millions of visitors can come to the place they want to see above almost any other spot in the East.

The Lincoln Highway must be modernized and maintained as one of the main routes across this great state and visitors should be given the privilege of driving over the route of their choice and not shuttled against their will onto a speed route that offers little except SPEED privileges.

Truman Reveals Schedule On Tour

Washington, Sept. 9 (AP)—President Truman said today his two-week western campaign tour will include San Francisco and Los Angeles. The Democratic nominee starts the tour with a speech at Dexter, Iowa, September 18.

Mr. Truman told a news conference he plans also to speak in Denver, Colorado Springs, Pueblo and Glenwood Springs in Colorado, and at Salt Lake City. A speech in San Diego, Calif., is under consideration.

Mr. Truman will leave Washington September 17 and return about October 1.

After the Dexter speech, the President will go to his hometown of Independence, Mo., to spend the night September 18. He will leave the afternoon of September 19 for Denver and will speak there September 20. His other Colorado appearances probably will be made the same day.

Congressional Spy Probe Shifts Today To Field Of "Atomic Espionage"

4 WITNESSES CALLED BEHIND LOCKED DOORS

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Washington, Sept. 9 (AP) — The congressional spy investigation shifted today to the field of atomic espionage.

Four witnesses were summoned before the house un-American activities committee, now operating behind locked doors. Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R-N.J.) declined to give out the names ahead of time. But he told reporters:

"We are now getting into the field of atomic espionage."

Report Early Finds

The committee claims it has uncovered evidence that Russia obtained some wartime shipments of uranium compounds and 25 pounds of refined metal from this country. It says it also has had testimony from a former army intelligence officer that some atomic scientists leaked information to Soviet representatives.

The house group is planning to resume public hearings next Wednesday when it may air some of the details. Rep. McDowell (R-Pa.) says a major witness will be Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, who headed the wartime atomic bomb project.

Committee members stressed that no one has questioned Groves' loyalty or reliability. But they want to bring out any information the retired army officer might have about possible sources of atomic leaks.

To Hear Of "Indiscretion"

The hearing schedule may be upset by a postponement in the questioning of Steve Nelson, chairman of the Communist committee for western Pennsylvania. Nelson has been subpoenaed for an appearance this afternoon, but the com-

USSR SUGGESTS COLONY PARLEY

BY THOMAS P. WHITNEY

Moscow, Sept. 9 (AP) — Russia has suggested that foreign ministers of the Big Four meet in Paris tomorrow to discuss the future of Italy's pre-war colonies.

(A British foreign office spokesman in London said he could not "venture to guess" whether it would be physically possible to get together on such short notice. There was no immediate reaction at the State Department in Washington. The problem is complicated by the fact that France has no cabinet.)

If Britain, France and the United States agree, the Big Four would have but five days to settle a question which has remained unsettled since the war, despite long and frequent conferences.

The Italian peace treaty provides that the four major powers must reach a decision on what to do about Libya, Eritrea and Somaliland by September 15 or turn the problem over to the United Nations. The U. N. Assembly convenes in Paris September 21.

Russia proposed last week that the Big Four get together before the treaty deadline and Britain and the United States replied yesterday that they were ready to do so. They asked Russia to set the date.

(The foreign ministers held many conferences on the colonial question and then referred it to their deputies for study. The deputies worked on it for a year and finally settled the whole thing back to their chiefs, without agreement. There has been no public announcement of the positions of the four powers, but responsible sources have said even the western powers are in disagreement.)

mittee agreed to hear him next Tuesday after he reported his wife was ill.

Also under subpoena to appear next Wednesday is Dr. Martin D. Kamen, who says he was fired from atomic bomb work at the University of California at Berkeley in 1944 for "indiscretion." Kamen, now a professor at Washington University, St. Louis, said his discharge resulted from a "phony incident" in which some Russian officials asked him questions about the atomic project which he declined to answer.

A House Labor subcommittee meanwhile subpoenaed six other witnesses for a separate hearing to find out whether Communists dominate the CIO Fur Workers union.

TOUGH TIME IS AHEAD FOR AVERAGE VOTER

Washington, Sept. 9 (AP)—"Who did it? He did it."

That just about sums up what you're going to have to listen to in the presidential campaign from now on.

The Democrats—with President Truman doing the talking—and the Republicans—with Harold E. Stassen talking—began their campaigns this week. They cut loose with four main ideas: Living costs, labor, prosperity and housing.

As the campaign goes on, a few more may be added but those four will run through the campaign.

Who Did It?

The high cost of living! Who did it?

The Republicans, Mr. Truman said.

The Democrats and world conditions generally, said Mr. Stassen.

The Taft-Hartley labor law! The Republicans controlled Congress when it passed in 1947, but a majority of Democrats joined with a majority of Republicans in passing it. But is it a good law, or bad?

Terrible, Mr. Truman said. He hammered away at the fact that the Republicans controlled Congress when the law was passed.

Warnings Heard

It's a good law, said Mr. Stassen, and he hammered away at the fact that a majority of Mr. Truman's own Democrats helped pass it.

Prosperity? We have it now, but will it last?

We'll have an "era of fear" if the Republicans win, said Mr. Truman. He took a dim view of continued prosperity if there is a Republican victory.

We'll keep prosperous if the Republicans win, said Mr. Stassen, and he indicated that Mr. Truman is gloomy anyway and is trying to scare people.

Housing? Why don't we have more housing?

Many Have Decided

Blame the Republicans, said Mr. Truman. Both Democrats and Republicans are to blame, said Mr. Stassen. We certainly "Must do something," he said.

Judge Rules On Mine Rights On Property

Somerset, Pa., Sept. 9 (AP)—A Somerset county judge has ruled that an agreement to deep-mine coal from property cannot be used as the basis for coal stripping operations on the land.

Judge Norman T. Booze yesterday upheld the right of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Weaver of Paint township to deny the Juliette Coal Co. permission to strip mine coal on their farm.

He refused a petition of the coal company seeking a declaratory judgment against the Weavers for their refusal to permit stripping operations.

The coal company had been mining coal from under the 240-acre Weaver farm under terms of an agreement signed in 1909 when stripping operations—taking the coal from the top of the land—were virtually unknown in Somerset county.

Prosperity and labor laws are so complicated that even experts have trouble figuring what's what.

Maybe a lot of voters already have their minds made up anyhow on the man they'll vote for. So they won't pay much attention to the arguments they read or hear on the radio. They include the people who vote against a candidate because they don't like his eyeglasses or his mustache.

But the rest of the voters will just have to listen—if their minds are still open—and try to reach honest answers by themselves. They have a tough job.

We'll have an "era of fear" if the Republicans win, said Mr. Truman. He took a dim view of continued prosperity if there is a Republican victory.

We'll keep prosperous if the Republicans win, said Mr. Stassen, and he indicated that Mr. Truman is gloomy anyway and is trying to scare people.

Housing? Why don't we have more housing?

TO CLASSIFY REGISTRANTS FOR DRAFT

Harrisburg, Sept. 9 (AP) — Those fateful symbols of World War Two — 1-A and 4-F will soon be back in vogue among thousands of young Pennsylvanians.

For classification of all young men eligible for registration under the new peacetime draft is about to get underway.

The state's 175 local draft boards have started sending out questionnaires which will be used to determine the classification of each of the registrants.

The symbol 1-A will be used to classify all those available for military service. Persons with dependents will go into the 3-A category, while those deferred because of civilian employment, except in agriculture, will be classified 2-A. The classification of necessary farm workers will be 2-C as in World War Two.

Other Classifications

Other classifications include 4-R, those who have completed service; 4-B, deferred by law as elected officials, legislators or judges; 4-C, aliens; 4-D, ministers of religion or divinity students; 4-E, conscientious objectors to all forms of military service; 4-F, those deferred because they are physically, mentally or morally unfit.

Registrants who have no objections to non-combatant service will be classified as 1-AC.

In addition there will be classifications of 1-C, members of the armed forces; 1-D, members of reserves or students taking military training, and 5-A, registrants who have attained the 26th anniversary of their birth since their registration.

Over 50 Years of Dependable Service

he liked everything in the speech about Mr. Truman and the Democrats.

Stassen told a Republican rally in Detroit on Tuesday that the Democratic candidate "cannot furnish the essential leadership" for the crucial years ahead. He said the president had come to the motor city the day before "as a complaining candidate for election seeking labor's vote."

The former Minnesota governor said that by removing "major wartime controls" in 1945, Mr. Truman set up the inflationary spiral as well as an "all time record of strikes and work stoppages."

The president ignored the bi-partisan foreign policy when he did not take a Republican to the Potsdam conference, Stassen said, calling that big three meeting a "colossal failure for the United States."

Turning to the question of Communists, Stassen said the Republicans are "driving the red herring out of the official waters of the Potomac" with the congressional investigations. And he said "the president should help man the red herring nets instead of complaining against the fishermen."

Stassen defended the Taft-Hartley act which he said the President is attacking only "because he hopes to secure a big political dividend by a cheap political complaint."

Divorced Husband Shoots Wife, Self

Philadelphia, Sept. 9 (AP) — Police said a 30-year-old divorced husband shot his former wife in the shoulder and then took his own life with a pistol following a quarrel yesterday over custody of their child.

Police said Joseph Christy died instantly, apparently under the impression that his ex-wife preceeded him in death. She escaped with a shoulder wound, however.

The shooting occurred in a dwelling where Mrs. Christy, a waitress, had gone to live two weeks ago with her daughter, Joan, 3. Mrs. Christy, who had legal custody of the child by terms of her divorce, was in the living room of the house with the little girl and her landlady, Mrs. Olga Crisafulli, when Christy entered.

Police said Christy announced he was going to take the child with him, and an argument followed. He whipped out the pistol and fired at Mrs. Christy, they said, then walked into another room and turned the gun on himself.

Seattle, Sept. 9 (AP) — The view that war crimes trial decisions may "haunt" the United States should it ever lose a war was before the American Bar association convention for consideration Wednesday.

Opinions on the fairness and value of the trials were presented yesterday. Charles F. Wennerstrum, Charlton, Ia., a presiding judge at Nuernberg, said:

"If we should not win the next war, practices which have been established at Nuernberg and Tokyo may haunt our officers and men who may be defendants in subsequent war crimes trials."
